The city will test its authority to require people to be vaccinated as a health measure. The Council recently passed an ordinanse providing for the vaccination of all persons needing it, and at the request of the Health Department appropriated money to purchase virus and employ physicians to make a house-to-house canvass to vaccinate free of charge all persons who had not previously been vaccinated or who could not show good scars. It was a precautionary measure to prevent any spread of smallpox. Some of those visited by the physicians have refused to be vaccinated, and papers have been served on six parties, three white and there colored, to appear in the Police Court on Thursday morning to show cause why they should not be fined for violating the morning to show cause why they should not be fixed for violating the ordinance. These cases will bring up the question of the authority of the city to enforce compulsory vaccination.
